Independent Research

Recent developments in the financial services industry have highlighted the need for unbiased investment research and the importance of the role that independent providers can play.

Independent research is called independent because it is free of potential conflicts of interest. It is created purely for the purpose of generating fresh ideas and supporting clients' investment decisions.

Due to the abundance of "research" which is oriented towards enhancing investment banking or promoting trading advantages, investors are showing a growing interest in research that is truly objective. They are seeking an edge over their competitors by considering the opinions of niche experts and independent research providers. This trend is only going to strengthen. However the number of quality research firms is not growing as fast.

Truly independent research firms are the ones that maintain standards of integrity and professionalism. They promote truth and align their interests with those of investors.

Independent Research by Northern Advisors

Northern Advisors is an independent investment research provider. The firm does not engage in any brokerage or underwriting activities. We perform technical and quantitative analysis of a number of carefully selected financial markets. Data is collected and analyzed daily to determine short and long term market trends, and then assessed (checked) against proprietary indicators.

Technical analysis is combined with macro-economic and political risk analysis. This comprehensive and in-depth approach enables us to identify favorable risk-adjusted opportunities. In our research we use a clear and fact based approach, consistently taking into account a number of selected indicators:

- ◆ Daily Highs and Lows
- ◆ Support and resistance levels
- ◆ Average True Range as a volatility indicator
- ◆ Short-term and long-term market trends
- ◆ Relationship between price and selected moving averages

Northern Advisors' core competency is its focus on product quality. We add value to clients' portfolios by providing fresh ideas to support their investment decisions.
